Why Sponsor the 2019 Conference?

- Showcase your services, successes, stories, programs, and products to a targeted audience
- Strategically position your firm before key decision makers and primary purchasers
- Heighten recognition for your company, agency, or group within the conservation community
- Make valuable personal contacts and strengthen existing relationships
- Support an event that fosters great learning and networking opportunities!

Who Will Be at the 2019 Conference?

The Conference unites tribal and non-tribal professional land managers, non-profit leaders, corporate sector representatives, government agency officials, academics, private landowners, citizens, students and researchers from across the Great Lakes Region, and beyond.

Great conference. I came away very re-energized! Thanks for your excellent work bringing people together!

– Pat Ruta McGhan, Manistee National Forest

The Science, Practice, & Art of Restoring Native Ecosystems

The Science, Practice & Art of Restoring Native Ecosystems Conference is an opportunity for Professionals and Volunteers to attend training sessions, network across a broad spectrum of environmental fields, learn about new advancements, compare best practices, and renew their excitement for environmental work. Now in its eleventh year and recognized as a premier conservation conference in the Great Lakes region, the 2019 Science, Practice & Art of Restoring Native Ecosystems Conference will draw well over 400 participants.
